CLAIMS SCENARIOS

Corporate Travel

The insured sustained a minor injury whilst in Timor-Leste for work. The condition deteriorated, requiring admission to a local hospital. The insured required emergency evacuation by air back to Darwin for heightened care.

AIG Travel was able to expedite quarantine permits and an Air Ambulance within hours for the insured and they're continuing rehabilitation and ongoing care in Australia.

Group Personal Accident

The insured is an aircraft refueller and sustained a shoulder injury at home that inhibited their ability to carry out their work which requires above shoulder height lifting.

The insured is undergoing extensive physiotherapy and awaiting surgery. They have been advised by their Doctor that it will be at least 12 months before they can resume their regular duties at the airport. The insured is therefore receiving a weekly injury benefit for 52 weeks.
